United States Media Television Receive Two 2010 Telly Awards

July 2nd, 2010, CORAL SPRINGS, FLORIDA – The producers of United States Media Television Inc. are pleased to announce their acceptance of two 2010 Telly Awards from the Telly Council. With the addition of these two Telly's, the company has now earned a total of eleven awards.

"We are very honored to be recognized by such a prestigious organization for yet another year," says Jim Nicholas, Vice President of Production for United States Media Television Inc. "These awards reflect the hard work and dedication the entire production staff has put into each and every segment. We attribute our continued success to our commitment of providing quality educational programming to viewers across the country."

United States Media Television Inc. was awarded two Telly Awards in the category of Tour/Travel for their segments "DC's Wine Country" and "Turtle Island". A snapshot of beautiful and peaceful Loudon County, "DC's Wine Country" evokes images of old Americana, where tourists and locals alike indulge in gorgeous Virginian wine country. "Turtle Island" prepares viewers for a romantic getaway to the Fiji Islands where couples and newlyweds enjoy a little slice of paradise with their very own private beach and Fijian-style bures.

The 31st Annual Telly Awards received over 13,000 entries, honoring only the very best local, regional, and cable television programs, in addition to film productions and media created for the Web.
